THE RED RIVER TROUBLES.

A Narrative by Dr. Lynch, One of Riel's Prisoners.

Full Confidence that Riel will be Crushed by the Dominion or Imperial Government-The Rebels of Winnipeg Favorable to the Dominion and Opposed to Annexation.

MONTREAL, April 23, 1870. Doctors Lynch and Schultz and Mr. Joseph Monkman, of Fort Garry, and Hugh Scott, the brother of the man murdered by Riel, are now stopping at 8t. Lawrence Hall, in this city. All of them have n, until recently, prisoners of the rebels at Red river. Dr. Lynch it will be remembered, is one who as been regarded as a good authority on the perplexed Northwestern question, and as having been sen (with Dr. Schuttz and some others) to compile a report for the use of the government upon the recent difficulties. The editor of the Evening Star here has had an exclusive interview willf the Doctor on the existing Red River troubles, and the informa-on obtained is somewhat interesting at this time. Dr. Lynch told the editor that he went up to the Northwest to engage in firming; and furthermore, that he intended to go there again for the same purpose when the rebellion was put down. He said that before the settlers became a ware that the territory to be ceded to Canada the French the English lived together in perfect.

There was no jealonsy whitever, They live! to a great extent apart, naturally, being different in language, in religion, and in a measure in interests; but the e was not the slightest approach to ill-feeting between them, nor do I believe that that is the case at pie e.it. There had been latent symptoms of an inclination to strike out a course fo themselves for some time, but the first overt movement was made in August last, when a meeting of the disaffected portion of the population was called, and resolutions were passed expressing an intention to declare independence. Neither Governor McTavish or the Hudson Bay Company took any steps to suppress the rebellion, and the Hudson Bay pany did not care to stop it. Under their regime the people had no voice in the appointment of rulers. There was a council of officers, but the members of this were appointed by the company at nome, under the recommendation of the officials in the territory, and the people had no voice whatever in tactrees.

The first movement towards an open rising was made in Ostabe., just before M Dougal arrivel, when the disaffected assemble I and elected Brouse President and Rei Sesteary. Rei was not known as a man of ability or mark in any way. We, at all events, the loyar Canadians, had never heard of the man at an, and is electainly is not quadified to be a leader of me to teng merely a young lenow of twenty-five or the eabouts, with no particular capacity, and with no recommendation beyond the good education which he is eleved the ein Montreal. The strings which guide the receition are taken by some twenty-five or the e doubts, with no particular enpacity, and with no recommendation beyond the good education which he is eleved here in Montreal. The strings which guide the rehealth on the envise the paper of the eleved here in Montreal. The strings which guide the rehealth on the even one far more competent han any of those who appear before he painne. When Alchongal came the ethe people were generally willing to receive him, and were anxious for annexation to the Dominion, but Riel's force overwell the people and the remast of allow the Lectmant Governor to enter fort Garry. The proportion of the French to the English population in the settlement is about one-third—1,000 to 3,000—but Riel did not have more than 400 men, and the force was and is composed entirely of the buffato hunters—men who have adopted the Indian habis and are more at home with the Indians than with white men. They are hardy, reckless, devit-may-care fellows, and the peaceful portion of the population were afrind of them. The respectable and responsible sattlers, French just as such as English, Catholic as certainly as Protestants, are loyal to a man. All the better and richer holders desire union to Canada. Riel's followers have no stake in the country except a few cows, a faut and a horse or two. The loyalists, although so strong in numbers, did not rise a faint the insergents because they thought it best to wait antil a force sumical they thought it best to wait antil a force sumical thing the property established, come settle themselves and arrange upon their course of action, every justice would be done to the people already sided, and every facility afforded them for obtaining me representation. They were certain that municipal government would be cisablished.

The convention at which the bill of rights was promugated was bossed by Riel and his partisans. The representatives who attended it had opinions of their own, and intended to ventilate them; but they soon found that Ried River was "a free country where every one might do an anything against their appointment. I was a prisoner under Riel for three months. There were fortyfive of us at first. Some were afterwards allowed to depart, but about forty were confined for three months. The party I was with were the worst off, we had the old sceretary's room in the Hudson Bay Company's office at Fort Garry, and were horrfuly cramped for room; those who were in the common jail were better off. We were overcrowded, not half warmed, and fed on penmican and coid water. Some of the prisoners escaped, Dr. Schultz among others. Be was confined separately from the first, and atterwards several of us suffered in the same way. Riel is simply a young scoundre, offensive and blaspiemous in his language, mean in his appearance, and allogether uncommanding in character. He has had two attacks of the delirium tremens already. Ross, the Chief Justice, is a cle virange of the same way at Real R ver before, and he would have been executed this time for certain as a traitor, being as he is a Scotch half-breed, had not he apostalized and joined the in urgenis. He is trying to straddle the raif, so us to fall ether side, but he will come to grief yet. He is a dreadful coward. The half-breeds generally are brave in falcer way. From having such intimate connection with the Indians thay have become treacherous, and would prefer shooting a man from behind a hedge to meeting him fairly; but if it comes to a fight they will right well and bravely. They are terribly afraid of the Dominion and imperial governments, and quite expect that a large and overwhelming force will be sent up carly, in June at all events, if their delegates don't make terms, but they hope that concessions may be made. Tray hope that the murder of Scott is not known. The New Nation is published under two separate forms, Coldwell being editor and manager, the one for service in the territory, the other to send abroad, and they trust that no nuthentic information of the execution will have reached Otlawa before their delegates have concluded terms.

BROWNLOW ON RECONSTRUCTION.

The Radical Organs in Tennessee "Brawing Senator Brownlow has written a letter to the editor of the Knoxville Chronicle-radical-from which we make the following extract:—

Having now spoken of the good qualities of your newspaper, I must say a word of its bad condities. It is too mild in its tone, and aitogether too obcillatory, considering the party with which you have to deal, and how violent and hostile toward the loyar people that party is. We have Governor Senter with us, and, as I am told, he has been better the Reconstruction Committee of the House. His testimony is said to have been strong against the Ku Kux party and altogether satisfactory to the republicins. I expect the committee of the House to report a bill looking to the reconstruction of Tennessee. We propose to wipe out the Legislature and the late Convention, and order an election of a new Legislature under the old law, and with a new registration, leaving the executive and judiciary undisturbed. The bill will meet with opposition in the House from the democracy and the tender-looted republicans, but with, nevertheless, pass.

In the Senate we will have less trouble, as we ess, pass, the Senate we will have less trouble, as we are divided politically, sixty republicans to ten democrats. They will of course go on to elect judges in Tennessee. What Governor Senter will feel it his duty to do I am unable to say; but if I were Governor I would refuse to commission their judges and other efficers. That party have made a great noise over the increase of the State debt by the Issuance of bonds to pay the five years; interest they had repudlated by the rebellion, and bonds issued under my administration to put our railroads in order. They call it the Brownlow despotism, extravagance and swinding. They promised to wive out railroads made receve an era of 0.03-jersiy. What here they done? Are they building up the to an and was e place? Are they building up the to an and was e place? Are they building up the to an and was e place? Are they building and reasts advanting or factory off. Let the mechanics and day labole so? Knoxyll e answer: the question The fifth meant of the present season in pasting of ratally, and I am pe set to be able to inform you that I am the ink man in the Senate who has neverbeen absent a day. I make no speeche; but he ages and mays show me to be always light voting for extreme radical measures. If I had no loss my you entity it is likely I would be talking too, though we have quite too much talking to both Houses.

GENERAL SHERIDAN IN A NEW ROLE. He Visits the Illinois Constitutional Convention

General Sheridan in a new role.

Ho Visits the Illinois Constitutional Convention and Makes a Speech.

[From the Springfield (III.) State Journel. April 23.]

Yesterday we noticed the arrival in this city of General P. H. Sheridan and his reception. Yesterday morning General Sheridan, in company with several friends, visited the tomb of Abraham Lincoln, at Oak Ridge Cemetery, near this city, and on his return at about eleven o'clock A. M. he was waited upon by Hon. Daniel Cameron and Hon. W. P. Pierce (members of the Constitutional Convention) and escorted to Representatives' Hall, where the Convention was in session. On arriving at the half the General was welcomed by the president in the following Speech:—

President Hitchcock—General, I have been deputed by the members of this Convention to tender to you and to the distinguished officer of your staff. General Forsyth, their most cordial greeting and salunation. It is no format duty that they have imposed upon me, and ought not to be performed with formal eulogy. You will permit me, however, to say for to this extent at least I ought to express the sentiment of the gentlemen before mc) that no one of the very eminent generals of their country, so kindles the enthusiasm of the State we represent as General Sheridan, whom I now have the honor of introducing to the gentlemen of the Convention.

General Sheridan, whom I now have the honor of introducing to the gentlemen of the Convention.

General Sheridan, whom I now have the honor of introducing to the gentlemen of the Convention.

General Sheridan, whom I now have the honor of introducing to the gentlemen of the Convention.

General Sheridan with I came to Springfield I came with the intention of seeing Springfield and this portion of the State, and did not expect to have this very great and ency extend pleasure. I assure you that I thank you very contally and from the bottom of my heart, for the kir dness shown to me this morning.

The members of the press and a large number of ladies and gentlemen had the sa

IN PURSUIT OF A TRUANT HUSBAND.—Mrs. Margaret Williamson accombanied by three children, arrived in this city from Canada in search of her husband, William Son. She was mable to find him on Wednesday, but yesterday David P. Williamson, forther-la-law of Mrs. Williamson, saw the motice in the papers, and last evening called at the Mayor's Office in quest of her. He said his brother worked at Armstrong's Coal Works, on the Conneils-ville kaliroad. It was not known where the woman was stopping, and consequently the brother-in-law could not be told where to find her. He left the office determined on discovering her whereabouts, provided she was within the limits of our city.—Pitts-burg Commercial, April 22.
